

Discover the Legend of Glacial Marine Clay

“The Mystical Beginning”

In the distant past when the North West Coast of the American Continent was just beginning to emerge from the last great ice age, many legends were born. One of these magical myths, handed down by the Elders, describes the story of a revered coastal chieftain who was wounded in a battle with a Great Bear Spirit.

The chief suffered many wounds and was left by the Bear Spirit for dead. The mighty Eagle Spirit found the great chieftain, picked him up with his mighty talons and carried him high above the rain forest to a far away hidden valley, which was the home of the healing clay.

The legends say that the valley was the protector of this magical green substance that could cleanse and heal all wounds. Eagle Spirit gently laid the chieftain in a clay bed where his wounds healed, as if by magic. The clay, as told by the Eagle Spirit, is to be used for healing and purifying and is nature's gift to all. Aboriginal people have used the healing clay for centuries to cure burns, bites and wounds. The clay also holds beauty secrets, revving up the circulation that helps purify and detoxify the skin, producing a healthy beautiful glow.

When using the clay you too will benefit from the strength of the Great Bear Spirit, and the wisdom of the Eagle Spirit. The magic of the clay is an ancient healing secret that is protected to this day in the beautiful hidden valley.

Glacial Marine Clay is nature's gift delivered directly from the secret Valley of the mighty Eagle Spirit.
